SPRING 2017 NEWSLETTER

Dear Students and Parents,

I am excited to announce that Midtown has a new website! I want to personally thank our black belt David Wennemar for putting together the new layout and for assisting in its transition. Please note, we have a new URL: <http://www.midtownmartialartselburn.com> If you visit the old site, you will be redirected automatically. But starting in September, you'll need to bookmark the new site and visit it directly.

Everything is now visible on the front page, including school closure dates and testing dates. Even the Midtown student handbook can be downloaded directly from the website! Now, students and parents can replace lost or damaged books and even have duplicate books to help study together. Though, this does mean that I will no longer accept "I lost my book." as an excuse for not studying for a test!

Please, take a moment to view the site, and become familiar with the new layout. It's VERY mobile friendly!!

As summer approaches and school lets out, I know many students participate in soccer, baseball, among other sports, and families often take vacations out of state. I want to remind you that Midtown does not change its class schedule for the summer. Please keep this in mind when planning your summer schedule. Take advantage of the usually smaller class sizes and come in to train for your next belt test! With smaller classes, I often teach some more advanced techniques!

I look forward to seeing you all throughout the spring and coming summer!

CLASS CLOSURES:

Saturday, May 27th & Monday May 29th – Memorial Day Weekend

Friday, June 30th – PROMOTION TEST

Tuesday, July 4th – Independence Day

Friday, August 18th – Elburn Days Parade

Thank you,

Master Kimberly Cote
